

NIGHT DREAMS POEM

Through Tengu's eyes, a sinister gaze
White Bones, a web of craze
Edgewise, the secrets of the other side
Hide the fear that we secretly confide.

The Manitou's wrath, a relentless force,
Garden of Evil, where nightmares divorce,
Rook, a symbol of uncertainty and dread,
While Mirror reflects what lies ahead.

The House That Jack Built, a haunting abode
Figures of Fear, down the corridors they flowed
Famine, a hunger that consumes the soul
Jessica's Angel, a world beyond control.

Flesh and Blood, a grotesque parade
Night Warriors, in shadows they fade
Charnel House, where the darkest mysteries unfold
The Chosen Child, a tale never told.

The Devil in Gray, his evil smile reveals
Haunted dreams, where reality conceals
In the House of Bones, echoes of the dead entwine
A chilling ode to horror, in Masterton's design.
